

CALLS SENT TO AN EXTRA HUNDRED

LOCAL REGISTRATION BOARD WILL ALSO HOLD EXAMINATIONS ON THURSDAY OF NEXT WEEK

BOARD MEETS MONDAY

Will Begin Acting On Exemption Claims Which Are Fast Piling Up—Graft Revealed in New York Board

Notices to an additional one hundred registered men calling them up for examination on Thursday, Aug. 16, were mailed out this afternoon from the headquarters of the local registration board for the first Rock County district. This makes a total of three hundred men who will be given examinations next week, or approximately 100 per cent of the men required for this district. By the end of next week the registered men whose order numbers are from 100 to 101 will have appeared before the local board.

While it is impossible to tell whether the district's quota of 152 men for the national army will be secured out of the first six hundred, it is probable that an additional call will be necessary. Board members seem confident that they ought to secure one out of every four men.

Board meets Monday.

The local board will meet on Monday to act on the hundred or more exemption claims which have been filed by candidates who were called up for the first time. Affidavits in support of these claims have been piling up for the last few days and will be ready for the board to pass on. When these are disposed of it will be possible for the board to tell exactly when they stand in the matter of securing the district's quota.

Secretary H. W. Lee has received new rulings and instructions from the War Department regarding the board's action with regard to the leniency which the board shall exercise in granting exemptions to men filing claims. The effect of these instructions is to the effect that local boards should use the greatest possible caution in giving exemptions on such claims and determine the absolute character of the dependability of the claimant.

Discover Graft in New York

Washington, Aug. 11.—Members of the New York local selective board who were relieved yesterday, after an inquiry into the manner in which district boards had been granted exemptions for sweeping discharges, and for sweeping discharges in other exemption districts, were taken today by the county district attorney, Edward Swann. Subpoenas were issued for the appearance before the board of the three members of the board who had announced the appointment of four members of his staff to conduct the proposed investigation.

In Marinette County.

Twenty claims were made, but it is believed that half of these will be turned down. It is estimated that about one in four is being taken for the army from examination. A call was issued for 320 extras today, which will make 546 in all called to secure a quota of 118.

DRAFTED SAMMIES GET BEST MEDICS IN ENTIRE U. S. A.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Aug. 11.—The draft specialists will take their own brain when they go to France.

That was one of the things Surgeon General Gorgas made clear today when he told how Sammie's aches, pains, wounds, germs and brainstorms will be taken care of.

As for germs, the General is going around to every one of the cantonment camps in this country, and teaching the specialists right along with them. "No Admittance" signs.

It was Gorgas who drove the yellow jacket out of the South, made the Canal zone safe for ditch diggers and put the finishing touch on the bubonic plague rats of New Orleans. He is now in supreme command of American's surgical and medical war plans for the Sammies at home and abroad.

"We intend to make our military cantonments as safe as medical science knows how," he said today. "We have put the best brains of the country on the job. We have organized a staff that you couldn't equal in any ten hospitals in the United States."

There will be specialists on everything. Major J. M. Goldthwait, for instance, the wizard of bones and joints. The Mayo brothers of Rochester, Minn., are Majors under Gorgas' lead.

Regarding mental disorders among the men, which he characterized as "very common in this way," General Gorgas said:

"We will take special care of these. Dr. Pearce Bailey is working on that in our department with the rank of Major."

Mental troubles are among the most common to be dealt with in modern armies. So much so that European hospitals have had to specialize in them.

"Shell shock" of course, requires scientific treatment. The best results are obtained when the patient is kept under observation within sound of the guns.

It is to be that a coward or quitter was rewarded with a kick or given heroic treatment in the guard house. Our prevailing practice, as in the case in all modern armies, will be in the majority of cases to give the needed mental and medical treatment to these men who can't live up to their duties as soldiers.

General Gorgas plans call for the enlistment of the services of 25,000 American physicians and surgeons within three next 12 months.

EX-PRISIDENT TAFT HAS RESTFUL NIGHT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Clay Center, Kas., Aug. 11.—Former president Wm. H. Taft, ill at a hotel here, apparently passed a good night. His physician, Dr. B. F. Morgan, said early this morning that although he had not seen Mr. Taft since the night of the 9th, he believed he was notified at once if the former president did not rest during the night. As he had not been called, Dr. Morgan believed his patient was resting easily and said he would not disturb him.

With the exception of getting into communication with his wife who is in Canada, Mr. Taft has not called any relatives. He has been saying that he didn't want to worry them, and he would be about in a few days anyway."

Dr. Morgan was not able this morning to say when the ex-president might engage.

"Mr. Taft is very weak and it will be some time before he will be able to stand his usual work," he said.

"Such a body as the new war industries board bids fair to be as absolutely essential for co-ordinating our industries and putting them behind our military forces in the most effective manner," says Frank A. Scott, chairman of the board. "Furthermore it is one of the chief duties of such an organization not only to obtain the available supply on the best terms, but to develop greater supply for which there is present lack of producing facilities. MOBILIZATION DATE FOR NATIONAL ARMY MAY BE POSTPONED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—Mobilization date for the drafted new national army, set for Sept. 1, may have to be postponed.

Marshal General Crowder Friday afternoon stated that the new date probably will be Sept. 4.

Crowder expected to ask Secretary of War Baker for permission to change the date. The first hint of difficulty over Sept. 1 was Saturday, and that the following Monday was Labor day. The intervening Sunday also is a period of heavy travel on railroads. To add to the difficulties of moving the first groups of 687,000 conscripts from the 4,557 local boards at practically the same hour. Crowder was told that many national guard regiments probably would be moving southward about Sept. 1. Change of date was decided upon by Crowder.

Drastic steps to stem the flood of draft exemption claims were taken by Provost Marshal General Crowder, who has issued a warning to all local boards that they must let none escape unless the dependability of his relative is very pressing.

This ruling on the dependency question is supplemented by regulations providing that conscripts who escape on account of minor physical defects.

An enormous repair shop is planned by the government to fix faulty teeth and eyes of drafted men. There is no chance for a conscript evading because he has bad teeth. Ten thousand volunteer dentists stand ready to repair them without charge. If a drafted man will not go to a local dentist, he is sent to the cantonment camp just the same. At the camp a dental clinic will be located. Men who wear glasses will not be taken for the infantry, but the ordnance, machine engineers and quartermaster corps will have thousands of spectacles men. Glasses will be permitted in these branches. The army will have its eye specialists too.

America's medical talent will be drawn on heavily to keep the soldiers in good health. Army chiefs believe they will have 20,000 doctors in uniform by Jan. 1.

3,250 AWARDS TO BE PRESENTED AT FAIR

750 IN LIVESTOCK—2500 OFFERED IN FARM, HOME AND SCHOOL EXHIBITS.

$13,279.25 IN PRIZES

$6,700 In Prizes for Horse Races—Small Army at Work on Grounds Which Are Closed to Public.

Three thousand two hundred and fifty awards will be given away in the various department exhibits at the Janesville fair which will be in session here from Tuesday until Friday of next week. With this there will be a total of $6,729.25 given away in the various departments. Large premiums are offered in many departments than ever before.

There are fourteen main departments for the exhibitors. Six of these which the public sees are: poultry, farm and garden products, floral, art, school, domestic, culinary and children's contests.

The total amount to be awarded in each department follows: Horse—$1,113.00; Beef breeds—$1,158.00; Dairy breeds—$1,158.00; Sheep—$680.00; Poultry—$285.00; Farm and garden—$371.25; Floral—$148.00; School—$500.25; Domestic—$181.50; Culinary—$275.00; Contest—$275.00.

Total—$6,729.25. In addition to this large sum, sixty-seven hundred dollars will be given away in the various races arranged on the big speed program, and one hundred dollars more will be awarded in the special races, pony and amateur running races and the like. In all, $13,279.25 will be given away at the fair.

This amount is far greater than that offered in premiums and prizes by most county fairs and is calculated to bring to Janesville one of the largest entry lists in history. Contests in every phase of farm and home work have been arranged; any piece of work, any crop, any savory dish, is liable to bring due honor and substantial money reward if exhibited.

The nature of most of the exhibits precludes the possibility of entering the men of the fair, and now the efforts of the directors is burdened with the rush of entries, and this is but an indication of what may be expected when the fair opens its gates to the public Tuesday morning.

Every exhibit in the fair will not only be of interest to people, but will serve as a veritable course of instruction in the proper way of doing things. The best of the fields, the barns, the schools and the home, all that there is in the mammoth exhibitions of machinery, automobiles, merchants' wares, manufacturers' products. Here the farmer or the owner of a home will be given the chance to study at first hand all the latest innovations in a mechanical line, designed especially for him. Here will be seen for the first time, a local county fair, the latest models in many of the standard makes of automobiles; here will be shown the latest developments in the agricultural implements machinery.

And when all that has been seen, the fair visitor will have covered but half of the fair. There is the big amusement side, the horse races, the prize attractions, the special contests, the entertainments, the shows, the concessions, the band concerts and the parade.

The 1917 fair will be the biggest in history. Its exhibits in many lines far surpass those of other county fairs, and in many cases can be rivaled only by the larger state fairs. It will provide its quota of fun and knowledge to the visitors. The magnitude of the fair demands a record attendance, and the tremendous cost of carrying out this finest of fairs must be met with the universal response of the entire county.

The fair will be ready when the gates are opened Tuesday morning. A small army is at work on the grounds now; tents are being erected to house the overflow exhibits; showmen are putting up their "big tops" and exhibitors are bringing in their prize herds. The gates are closed to all until the fair officially opens. Police are on guard, and none will be permitted "to look things over."

ELOPE TO ROCKFORD AND WED ON FRIDAY

Miss Florence Brees of This City and L. Curtis White of Englewood, N. J., Announce Marriage.

Miss Florence L. Brees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brees of 911 Milwaukee avenue, and L. Curtis White of Englewood, N. J., were married Friday morning in Rockford, at the Baptist parsonage. A telegram was received in the afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Brees announcing the marriage. It was a surprise, and the bride and groom had started out for an automobile ride in the morning.

Mrs. White is well known in this city, having spent all of her girlhood years here. She is a graduate of Western Hall.

Mr. White is a West Point graduate and is an electrical engineer in the employ of the Philadelphia water works. Mr. and Mrs. White will reside in Philadelphia for the present, but many Janesville friends extend congratulations.

COWS EAT PARIS GREEN; FOUR DEAD, OTHERS SICK
Neenah, Wis., Aug. 11.—Four valuable Holstein cows of the fine herd belonging to Judge J. C. Kerwin are dead and others sick on the Kerwin farm, near West Menasha, from eating Paris Green. Yesterday the judge and his men were at work spraying potatoes and by accident left a pail of poison in the field and when they turned all that was left was the empty pail, the cows having drunk the entire contents.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE BACK HOME FELLOWS

County Defense Council Appeals for Men Who Will Keep Soldiers at Front in Touch With Home Town.

In a circular letter sent out to ministers, business men and citizens the County Defense Council begins a campaign for the organization of "back home fellows" who will keep the men in training camps or at the front in touch with affairs in their home towns, send them magazines and newspapers, and in other ways act as the part of "pals" or "brothers." Secretary Starr's letter given below explains the plan in detail.

Young Men of Rock County: The Rock County Council of Defense appeals to you to volunteer to fill the ranks of the army of the soldier's big brother.

We entreat you to "stand back of the boys who wear the uniforms and who bear the brunt of our battle at the front."

"We urge you to become the 'personal friend' of some soldier boy, brother and pal of some soldier boy in Uncle Sam's army."

"Among your duties as a home volunteer, would be to be a 'helping hand' to the soldier boy who is left behind and who would, when the soldier was gone, see to it that if those dependent on him were in want their cases would be reported at once to the proper authorities, so that they could be promptly and efficiently aided."

"As a back-home fellow it would be your duty and privilege to keep the soldier at the front fully informed as to the conditions at home, and to write a letter to the soldier, put as often as every two weeks, to furnish him with suitable reading matter and also a copy of the local news."

"The soldier's home, his family, his clothing and small comforts that Uncle Sam cannot furnish at the present time would be acceptable to your pal at the front, boy who follows the flag, feel that he leaves behind a soldier pal with a soldier spirit."

"Young men, the citizens of Rock County will stand back of you with a generous heart and aid in your noble duty to the soldier boy and his dependents."

"Boys, the bugle call has sounded. Fall in, and keeping time to the music of humanity, fill the ranks of the back home volunteers. Yours very truly, 'Rock County Council of Defense.' 'T. P. Starr, Corresponding Sec.'"

THE "JUDGE" PRESIDES FOR JUDGE MAXFIELD

City Attorney Lange Assumes Judicial Toga in Municipal Court—Sends One to Jail War Crops.

City Attorney "Judge" Charles H. Lange in Municipal court this morning "judged" in place of Judge H. L. Maxfield, who is on a vacation. He gave William Briggs, a local farmer, a term of ten days, regardless, a fine of ten dollars and fifteen days added to the ten if he failed to pay the fine.

The judge refused to sentence Frank Sager, a stranger in the court since last September—he has been in Waupun all that time—when Sager was willing to change his plea to guilty to one of the charges of drunkenness upon which he was being prosecuted. Mr. Lange decided to postpone the case until Monday so that Judge Maxfield could pass on the case.

Sager was released from Waupun two weeks ago and since he dropped off the train at the depot and right away stopped at a North Academy street saloon he has been on a drunk since the police told the court. On March 25, 1916, Sager was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary for becoming drunk while under the commission of a crime, but he was suspended and he was placed under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Control. In September he was arrested again for breaking his latest parole and on the fifteenth was sent to Waupun for a year. Good behavior got him one a short while ago.

He told the court he was not guilty of failing to support his wife and family as he had said and means in the hands of administrators to properly care for his nearest kin. Why funds had not been given them he was unable to explain.

FOOD THRIFT BODY THANKS THE MAYOR

Commission Extends Appreciation to Mayor Fathers for Garden Project in This Community.

Mayor James A. Fathers yesterday received the thanks of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission for his cooperation in furnishing the food garden planting movement in Janesville and for his recently issued proclamation telling of the importance of practicing food conservation by canning and drying vegetables and fruits which have been raised or purchased, and by practicing food thrift.

P. S. Roddick, secretary and treasurer of the commission, in his letter to the mayor, wrote that the importance of the food conservation effort by all the people is steadily growing.

The commission has a manual on home canning and a manual on home drying of vegetables and fruits which they will forward to any person desiring such upon receipt of a two cent stamp for each, the postage being sufficient to carry the printed information through the mails.

Gazette Will Warn Farmers of Frosts

Another service similar to the telephone market service established recently, has been provided by the Gazette for the benefit of the tobacco growers and farmers of this vicinity. Frost warnings and the forecast of cold waves will be sent to the Gazette by telephone from the office of the weather bureau at Milwaukee, and will be published in the paper.

Information regarding coming frosts may be obtained by farmers, who suspect cold, by telephoning to the business office of the Gazette, number 77 on both phones, any time during the day. This service makes it possible for growers to ascertain definitely what may be expected, and will allow them sufficient time to prepare for cold waves.

BIG LOCAL CROWD TO FOLLOW CARDS FOR WATERTOWN GO

Train and Autos to Carry Good Sized Delegation to Root for Janesville Victory Tomorrow.

The Cardinals will not be without backing when they hook up with the league leading Goshings at Watertown tomorrow afternoon, for a host of enthusiastic followers are going along to root for a Janesville victory. Some will take the train with the team early tomorrow morning, while others are organizing automobile parties to make the trip overland.

Since the co-op managers, Langdon and Kuhn, announced that Nick Kearns of the Chicago Mutuals would do the hurling for the Cardinals, the fans were boosted a hundred percent and as many as can make the trip are going to see Nick nick the Goshings.

President Langdon, the club director, members of the team and those fans who have been giving close attention to the team, are of the opinion, and rightly so, that the Cardinals are the best of any in the league, and that it will have to be a pretty good flock of Goshings which can down the Cards.

After Al. Cook raced home from second base with a winning run in the seventh inning of the game against the Rockford Maroons last Sunday and Captain "Duckie" Eberts shouted, "Now we'll go up to Watertown with those Goshings they won't have a quick left."

We hope so. So does every baseball fan in Janesville. The Cards have climbed to a position where they have big opportunity to pull down the leaders and take berth themselves in the victory tomorrow will be a full lap gain on the duckings.

way to the front ranks among the New York boxmen.

During the month of July Russell was called upon to work in no less than twelve games. This gives him a record of his pitching skill as rated by Bill Donovan. In the early days of the campaign he worked only at rare intervals, but now he has established his right to numerous chances to shine as a resurser as well.

It looks as if Ed McGorty is done as a fighter. At Sidney, Australia, the other night, he was defeated in twenty rounds. McGorty got into the ring at catchweights, and had roots of fat around his waistline. He was slow, did not punch, and was knocked out in the fifteenth round. The day after the battle McGorty was taken ill and removed to a hospital in Sidney. On being admitted he was found to have a double rupture and in a very bad advanced stage.

The Brooklyn players have raised $500 for the club. This has added $500 toward a fund to care for those dependent on those Brooklyn players who may have to go to war. This sum, they estimate, the nucleus of a fund to be raised through exhibition games and Sunday contests at Ebbets field.

Bill Phelan says: "A baseball player would just as soon part with his money as he would with his batting average. Which recalls to us the time Sam Crawford, of the Cincinnati Reds, boasted about making an entire eastern trip with the team and only spending 3 cents while en route. The 3 cents was spent on postage for the team. No wonder all ball players are such strong advocates of the anti-traveling law."

Rube Marquard is sore all through. He is married, and therefore doesn't expect to be called to the war. Nevertheless, just to be patriotic, Rube went to a surgeon and was given a double rupture and in a very bad advanced stage.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a student of this college. I am a young man whom I like very much. He seemed to think quite a lot of me. I have observed the very motherly advice you have given to others so I am writing to you in hopes you will be able to tell me how to interest him and (2) I also wish you would give me a reliable remedy for sunburn. B. M.

(1) There are a good many ways you might be able to interest the young man you met without appearing to run after him. Try to dress neatly and prettily and be as refined and ladylike on the street and in places where you meet him as possible. When you see him again see what subjects he is interested in talking about, and then if you are not well informed on those subjects, read up on them. You will find that you will learn the lesson so many young people fail to learn these days—of being interesting to everyone. The more effort you put into these things, the more results you obtain yourself, think not of what you like to learn, but what others are likely to require of you. Be natural, and times and above all, center your own attention on this one young man. You will find that as you get interested in people in the town they will become interested in you if you are the right kind of a girl.

(2) A good mild remedy you might use to rid yourself of sunburn is buttermilk.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have thirty dollars to spend on a week's vacation. What do you think I could do with it that would be a nice way to spend a vacation?

(2) I stopped school when quite young. What sort of books could I read to get better educated?

SIMPLE SUSAN.

(1) There are lots of very nice little lakes in the country and nearly all of them have summer hotels. Their rates are not very high, and you could have a nice time at some lake. Take along some cool clothes and a bathing suit, and you will make plenty of friends at the lake.

(2) Go to the library and the librarian will give you a list of the world's best literature. It depends on what you like. You might begin by reading Charles Dickens's books and George Eliot's and some of the older literature. You might like Shakespeare's plays. You probably have been to many moving picture shows where they show the plays of Shakespeare. Walter Scott and other good authors and poets. You can tell which ones you liked and then get other books by these authors to read. Don't read trashy magazines, but buy those which print good educational articles.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can a person remove freckles and not injure the skin? I have some freckles, and would like to remove them, but would not want my face to become rough and unsightly. Please recommend something to use to remove them. G. J.

A good freckle lotion is made from one-half ounce of quince seed, one-half ounce of olive oil, one ounce of alcohol, one ounce of perfume, and one pint of water. Crush the quince seed and macerate with the hot water for one hour, stirring frequently, then strain through muslin, and add the alcohol of ammonium in fine powder. Then dissolve and add the perfume or bulk perfume slowly, shaking them well together.

This application should remove freckles if applied for a few days. It is also good for sunburn, tan, etc.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have shadow most of the time. "Those who live on the mountain top have a longer day," interrupted Bertram.

I doubt if any one could live always on such an elevated plane, continued Patty dreamily, "but it is a comfort that the terrible strain that these things put upon you, even though the courage that makes us able to bear it."

"It takes strength to climb to the mountain top, and it develops strength also; that is, we are in a shadow all we need do is to climb up higher and the fact that we have climbed up before will make it easier to ascend again."

"True, there is nothing easy about all this, but we should not pay for easy lives. For one who does not want to be a protected life, shut out from all temptation and suffering, I want to have powers equal to my tasks. I want to be a man able to meet things as they come in this world. I want to be a man who can say, 'Lord, give me happiness. Give me experience. Give me suffering. Give me wisdom. Let me see what life is in all its richness, sadness, and joy. I like his spirit, and the queer thing about it all is that no other way we achieve happiness. Richness of life, wisdom, experience, all come from suffering. Suffering enlarges our sympathies and our imagination so we can project ourselves into other people's lives. We can widen our own lives."

"You think of myself as I was when you first knew me as a very selfish, narrow person, with a very limited horizon. Patty raised her head and looked with solemn earnestness into her eyes. "I was like that, but now I have climbed over the hills that shut in your little valley of life and from the top of the hill, your horizon takes in the suffering of the world. I have seen it, and I realize that you can never be happy if you are not doing all in your power to alleviate it. So your life is enriched through the sufferings of others."

"Whatever comes to us in the future we can never be separated. Our real selves can never be touched," answered Patty. (To be continued.)

MENU HINTS

Breakfast: Cracked Corn with Cream. Coffee. Sautéed Cornmeal Mush. Luncheon: Oatmeal-Sausages. Radishes. Baking Powder Biscuits. Iced Tea. Strawberry Preserves. Dinner: Curried Salmon. Escalloped Potatoes. Stuffed Tomatoes. Cold Slaw. Fruit Gelatine. Coffee.

GUARD YOUR FOOD IN SUMMER.

While people are busy about about the condition of the food they eat, at all seasons, they should be particularly watchful during the summer months," declared Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, chief of the government bureau of chemistry.

"Housewives should see to it that their milk, after being left by the milkman, does not stand for any length of time. If it is put in the ice box, milk bottles should be kept closed, both in the ice box and out of it, and if there is any doubt at all regarding the milk, it should be discarded."

"Keep Food Covered." "All food should be kept covered or wrapped, and always out of reach of flies and other carriers of typhoid. All vessels, pitchers, etc., in which food is to be stored, should first be scalded, and the food handled as little as possible."

"The food, especially its drainage pipe, should be cleaned thoroughly and frequently with boiling water and washing soda, and given an occasional airing."

"In the olden times of course he was safe and sound, but now, in these days of bridge, dancing or movies. Now when Little Bright Eyes comes back at him with the startling announcement that she has been kissed, he is not so sure of himself."

"Those who leave home for vacations should not get the idea that a summer resort or strange city is necessarily pure and wholesome. The danger of typhoid in the country resorts is very great. Many cases of typhoid are reported in the fall in cities, where the water is pure, had their origin in water or contaminated substances consumed at some summer resort."

"FRENCH DRESSING." Three tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. The ingredients for the dressing may be mixed and poured at once over the salad-materials, which are then turned over and over until the dressing has been taken up by the oil. The dressing, mixed with the oil, may be used, then, after each leaf or separate piece has been thoroughly coated with the oil, the salad may be poured on and the salad turned over and over until the dressing is mixed throughout. Neither French nor mayonnaise dressing should be strongly acid, and one teaspoon of acid to three of oil is a good proportion. For French dressing, use two tablespoons of oil and two of vinegar. For mayonnaise, use one part of oil to one part of vinegar. A little vinegar or lemon juice in a dressing will give point to (or bring out) the natural acid flavor of the tomato.

HOW TO CLEAN OLD PARAFFIN. Paraffin that has become unclean through usage in canning and serving may be cleaned and reused. No matter how old and dirty, and how much it has become mixed with dirt, many times paraffin can be cleaned with a brush in cold water. If this does not remove all the dirt, says a specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, heat the paraffin to boiling and strain it through two or three thicknesses of cheesecloth. The paraffin is then ready for use. Or, cheesecloth of absorbent cotton over a thin layer of cheesecloth may be used as the strainer.

DOING IT TO THE LEAST

With all the preparedness movement and the universal desire of our people to do their bit for the good of the country, it seems rather anomalous, even embarrassing, that as yet there has been no general effort to train American young women in the intelligent care of babies. Too large a percentage of our womanhood appears to look upon babies as an encumbrance. A home childless by intention is a deplorable institution of which the nation has no reason to be proud.

There is so much ignorance of the rudiments of child care among our potential future mothers that it is no wonder the mother instinct is so weak, and no wonder so many young women are so ignorant of the care of a baby. When it is necessary to recall invitations to a ball, printed cards which can be furnished at short notice, could be sent to the invited guests, and the reason for the change of plans should be given. The world might be in some such form as this: "On account of the serious accident and consequent illness of Mrs. Edmund Bignow, Mr. and Mrs. Bignow beg to recall the invitations issued for their ball."

E. S. V. No: you should not make a formal announcement of your broken engagement in such cases. A young woman's mother tells a few of her friends, and asks them to spread the news. I want to be a man able to meet things as they come in this world. I want to be a man who can say, 'Lord, give me happiness. Give me experience. Give me suffering. Give me wisdom. Let me see what life is in all its richness, sadness, and joy. I like his spirit, and the queer thing about it all is that no other way we achieve happiness. Richness of life, wisdom, experience, all come from suffering. Suffering enlarges our sympathies and our imagination so we can project ourselves into other people's lives. We can widen our own lives."

"You think of myself as I was when you first knew me as a very selfish, narrow person, with a very limited horizon. Patty raised her head and looked with solemn earnestness into her eyes. "I was like that, but now I have climbed over the hills that shut in your little valley of life and from the top of the hill, your horizon takes in the suffering of the world. I have seen it, and I realize that you can never be happy if you are not doing all in your power to alleviate it. So your life is enriched through the sufferings of others."

"Whatever comes to us in the future we can never be separated. Our real selves can never be touched," answered Patty. (To be continued.)

I doubt if any one could live always on such an elevated plane, continued Patty dreamily, "but it is a comfort that the terrible strain that these things put upon you, even though the courage that makes us able to bear it."

"It takes strength to climb to the mountain top, and it develops strength also; that is, we are in a shadow all we need do is to climb up higher and the fact that we have climbed up before will make it easier to ascend again."

"True, there is nothing easy about all this, but we should not pay for easy lives. For one who does not want to be a protected life, shut out from all temptation and suffering, I want to have powers equal to my tasks. I want to be a man able to meet things as they come in this world. I want to be a man who can say, 'Lord, give me happiness. Give me experience. Give me suffering. Give me wisdom. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Should the Baby Eat Bananas? Our two-year-old boy is ravenously fond of bananas, and does a veritable "banana song" every time he sees them. I have yielded to his demands in spite of Emmet Holt's advice against bananas for children. They seem to agree with him. Am I wrong in giving them to him? When he was six months old he showed a tendency to rickets, the doctor said, but he tells me this is now corrected. (Mrs. G. C. H.)

ANSWER.—Provided the bananas are ripe and brown all over, and soft but not mushy all through, and the outer portion—the fibrous part—pared off, I see no reason why a boy of two years should not eat them. Bananas are a healthy food, and are chiefly fruit sugar anyway, and a baby's natural food is more than half sugar.

Organic Error Again Crops Up. I am nervous and dyspeptic and have considerable palpitation and shortness of breath when I walk or exert myself, as in climbing a flight of stairs. Have lost twenty-five pounds in the past year. Am a fairly young man, and have never taken much care of myself—use to drink considerably and always overindulged in cigars. I am organically sound. Can you suggest anything? (J. M. F.)

ANSWER.—Yes sir. Your organs are quite obviously not sound. If your organs were sound you would not be ill. That "functional" and "organic" idea is just small talk the doctors use to keep the patient from understanding the medical lectures. Young girls apparently feel no hesitation in learning how to deal with case of croup or convulsions or hemorrhage until medical aid can be summoned.

There is a great need for general education of the girls in the proper care of babies. The conservation of human life in infancy is perhaps the greatest field of philanthropic endeavor. A young woman can choose today, because it contains such wonderful possibilities. Will not the responsible women of the community consider this need and institute some country-wide movement looking toward the education of our young girls in this vital matter? Every village and city offers plenty of material for the work of girls who know how to wash dress, and indifferently care for helpless infants. Is a baby

Beer Not a Harmless Drink. Many people believe that beer contains nourishment and strength for the workingman and rest for the who are tired. This is a delusion brought about by the action of alcohol contained in the beer upon the nervous system. Like the same drug in patent medicine, alcohol in beer temporarily deadens the tired feeling but it does not contribute strength or nourishment to the body. Each pint of four per cent beer contains nearly an ounce of alcohol. The man who drinks two glasses of beer per day will take into his system 1.2 pints of pure alcohol in a month and 14.6 pints in a year. The effect will be as if poison in the system to impair his health and decrease rather than increase his working capacity.

Sir Andrew Clark, physician to the late Queen Victoria, reported tests made with soldiers of the same age and type of constitution. They were divided into two companies which he will designate Company A, and Company B. Each man was paid for the work he did. The conditions were then reversed and beer was furnished to the men of Company A and withheld from the men of Company B. In each instance it was found that the men who had beer were more work and received more money than those who were without it. On these days when it was furnished, the men who had beer were more work and received more money than those who were without it.

Everywhere men are learning the truth about beer. Employers are encouraging in abstemious and laboring men are stopping the drinking habit.

BOCHE REPAYING KINDNESS AFTER FORTY-SEVEN YEARS [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Paris, Aug. 11.—French kindness to a German prisoner 47 years ago is bearing fruit today.

Early in the war of 1870 French troops took a young German officer prisoner and put him in a prison camp for the duration of the war. During the long weary months of waiting for peace the officer and his companions were given every latitude of privilege that a war prisoner could ask.

Today Marcel Richard, a young French sous-officier and his companions in the German prison camp at Meisner are reaping the benefit. The German officer-prisoner of 1870 now old for active military service, is commandant of the prison camp.

Young Richard has written home to his folks in Paris for his tennis rackets and shoes telling them why he is able to enjoy this recreation. The commandant is not only allowing his charges every possible freedom but has purchased the tennis outfit—net, rackets, balls, etc.—from his own pocket.

WE MUST DO SOMETHING.

Nothing makes me more impatient than to hear middle-class (I refer to heads of about the high cost of living.)

The cost of living has become almost as much a commonplace as the weather nowadays. Whenever people meet it comes to the surface as naturally as "Well, is this not enough for you?" or "Isn't this a fine morning?"

Of course it is exasperating (to put it mildly) to see the purchasing powers of one's dollar steadily lowered. It is very trying to have to get along with last year's motor car instead of buying a new one. Or to have to stay in a big one-story house with every corner of the house going away to the store.

How Can They Be So Smug? But what gets me is the smug way these people are aroused to feeling but pity for these conditions. They are utterly indifferent to the fact that what to them means fewer luxuries means underfeeding if not actual starvation to many.

which they complain. I want them to complain no less. I want them to be filled with a burning indignation which will make them read and study and talk and try to understand this thing so that they can bring the influence and their suffering behind some force that will better things. The public opinion of the big steady middle class is the greatest force in this country.

Let us not be content to groan about the high cost of living as we do about the hot weather. Let's go without food a day if necessary to make ourselves understand what some people are suffering and to fill us with righteous indignation instead of fretful grumbling.

Just Folks

SELFISHNESS. Search history, my boy, and see. What petty selfishness has done. Find if you can one victory That little minds have ever won. There is no record of a man who has fought for self alone. No instance of a single deed Of splendor they may proudly own.

Through all life's story you will find That miser and his horded gold. A hermit, dreary and unkind, An outcast from the human fold. Men hold him up to view with scorn, A creature by his fellows scorned. And rightly shall they scorn him. Doomed by the money he has saved.

No man was ever truly great Who sought to serve himself alone. Who put himself above the state, Above the friends about him thrown. No man was ever truly glad Who ranked his joy on hoarded self. And gave of nothing that he had Through fear of needing it himself.

For selfishness is wintry cold, And bitter are its joys at last. The very charms it tries to hold With frost and coldness shall be cast. And only he shall gladly live And bravely die when God shall call Is he who gathers but to give, And with his fellows shares his all.

"I know that I have been indicted by the grand jury and that there is a reward out for me. It's two thousand dollars, isn't it?"

She let the exact figure of the reward go unconfirmed.

"And still you are going about in public as if all the hat and cry meant nothing to you? The heard is an improvement—it makes you look older and more determined—but it doesn't disguise you. I should have known you anywhere, and other people will."

Again his shoulders went up.

"What's the use?" he said. "I couldn't dig deep enough nor fly high enough to dodge everybody. You have found me, and if you hadn't, somebody else would have. It would have been the same any time and anywhere."

"I was intending to go on up to the mines with father," she said evenly. "But last evening, while I was waiting for him to finish his talk with some mining men, I was standing in the mezzanine, looking down into the lobby. I saw you go to the desk and leave your key; I was sure I couldn't be mistaken; so I told father that I had changed my mind about going out to the mines and he seemed greatly relieved. He had been trying to persuade me that I would be much more comfortable if I should wait for him here."

It was no stirring or belated sentiment that made Smith say: "You— you care enough to wish to see me?"

"Naturally," she replied. "Some people forget easily; others don't. I suppose I am one of the others."

Smith remembered the proverb about a woman scorned and saw a menace more to be feared than all the terrors of the law lurking in the even-toned rejoinder. It was with some foolish idea of thrusting the menace aside at any cost that he said: "You have only to send a ten-word telegram to Sheriff Macaulay, you know, I'm not sure that it isn't your duty to do so."

"But you believe me guilty, don't you?"

"Why should you telegraph Barton Macaulay?" she asked placidly. "I'm not one of his deputies."

"But you believe me guilty, don't you?"

The handsome shoulders twitched in the barest hint of indifference. "As I have said, I am not in Barton Macaulay's employ—nor in Mr. Watrous Dunham's."

Neither am I the judge and jury to put you in the prisoner's box and try you. I suppose you knew what you were doing, and why you did it. But I do think you might have written me a line, Montague. That would have been the least you could have done."

For some time afterward the talk was not resumed. Miss Richlander was apparently enjoying her dinner. Smith was not enjoying his, but he ate as a troubled man often will; mechanically and as a matter of routine. It was not until the dessert had been served that the young woman took up the thread of the conversation precisely as if it had never been dropped.

"I think you know that you have no reason to be afraid of me, Montague; but I can't say as much for father. He will be back in a few days, and when he comes it will be prudent for you to vanish. That is a future, however."

Smith's laugh was brittle.

"We'll leave it a future, if you like. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

"Oh; so you class me as an evil, do you?"

"No; you know I didn't mean that. I merely mean that it's no use crossing the bridges before we come to them. I've been living from day to day so long now, that I am becoming hard-ened to it."

Again there was a pause, and again it was Miss Richlander who broke it. The slow smile was dimpling again at the corners of the perfect mouth.

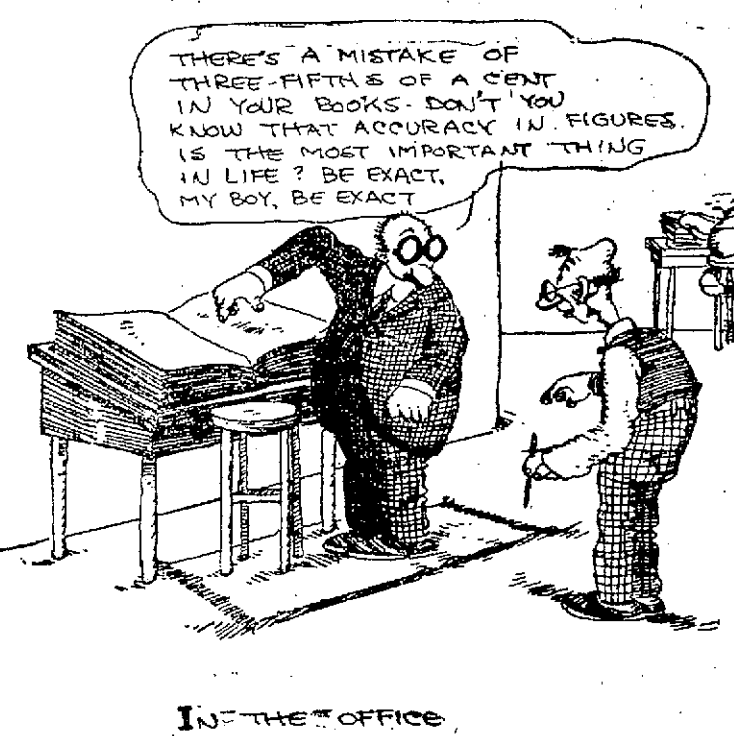

"You are going to need a little help, Montague—my help—aren't you? It occurs to me that you can well afford to show me some little friendly attention while I am Robinson-Crusoe here waiting for father to come back."

"Let me understand," he broke in, frowning across the table at her. "You are willing to ignore what has happened—to that in the eyes of the law I am a criminal?"

She made a faint little gesture of impatience.

"Why do you persist in dragging that in? I am not supposed to know anything about your business affairs."

"He's simply a wonder, Miss Richlander!" he confided over the luncheon table. "Coming here a few weeks ago, absolutely unknown, he has already become a prominent man of affairs in Brewster. And so discreetly reticent! To this good day nobody knows where he comes from, or anything about him."

"No?" said Miss Verda. "How singular!" But she did not volunteer to supply any of the missing biographical facts.

"Absolutely nothing," Stanton went on smoothly. "And, of course, his silence about himself has been grossly misinterpreted. I have even heard it said that he is an escaped convict."

"How perfectly absurd!" was the smiling comment.

"Isn't it? But you know how people will talk. They are saying now that his name isn't Smith; that he has merely taken the commonest name in the category as an alias."

"—he is an Escaped Convict."

"I can contradict that, anyway," Miss Richlander offered. "His name is really and truly John Smith."

"You have known him a long time, haven't you?" inquired the lady with the headlight diamonds.

"Oh, yes; for quite a long time, indeed."

"That was back in New York state?" Stanton slipped in.

"In the East, yes. He comes of an excellent family. His father's people were well-to-do farmers, and one of his great-uncles on his mother's side was on the supreme bench in our state; he was chief justice during the later years of his life."

"What state did you say?" queried Stanton craftily. But Miss Verda was far too wide-awake to let him surprise her.

"Our home state, of course. I don't believe any member of Mr. Smith's immediate family on either side has ever moved out of it."

Stanton gave it up for the time being, and was convinced upon two points. Smith might have business reasons for secrecy—he might have backers who wished to remain completely unknown in their fight against the big land trust; but if he had no backers the other hypothesis clinched itself instantly—he was in hiding; he had done something from which he had run away.

It was not until after office hours that Stanton was able to reduce his equation to its simplest terms, and it was Shaw, dropping in to make his report after his first day's work as clerk and stenographer in the High Line headquarters, who cleared the air of at least one fog bank of doubts.

"I've been through the records and the stock-books," said the spy, when in obedience to orders, he had locked the office door. "Smith is playing a lone hand. He flimsied Kinzie for his first chunk of money, and after that it was easy. Every dollar invested in High Line has been dug up right here in the Timanyoni. Here's the list of stockholders."

Stanton ran his eye down the string of names and swore when he saw Maxwell's subscription of $25,000. "Damn it!" he rasped; "and he's Fairbairn's own son-in-law!"

"So is Starbuck, for that matter; and he's in for twenty thousand," said Shaw. "And, by the way, Bill is a man who will bear watching. He's hand-in-glove with Smith, and he's onto all of our little crooks and turns. I heard him telling Smith today that he owed it to the company to carry a gun."

Stanton's smile showed his teeth. "I wish he would; carry one and kill somebody with it. Then we'd know what to do with him."

for every advertiser is assured by the plan of arrangement of the Want Ad columns of The Gazette. The ads are all correctly classified, correctly indexed and correctly placed in A-B-C position in the columns. No advertiser is allowed to take an unfair advantage over another; all are treated alike, for what is a rule for one is a rule for every man.

This means fair treatment for the reader, too. He is not deceived by misclassification; his time will not be wasted as it would be if the ads were jumbled up "any-old-way" in the columns.
